In this exchange, TFG Student Ambassadors gave an introduction in Japanese of Taiwan and TFG, and then students are separated into groups to discuss about COVID-19. Every group is required to decide their own topic, for example, changes of school life, the effect on the economy, and so on. We can tell that even though there are some disadvantages of online courses, there are also silver linings of it through Urawa students' presentation.

Participants from TFG of this exchange indicated that they all felt the passion of Japanese students. The two historical high schools are holding a lot of commons in club activities, climate of learning... All of these brought more conversation to the exchange.

The two schools also sent souvenirs and postcards to each other after the online meeting. Many of the participants stay in touch with their partners, too. Hope there will be a chance for students to see each other face to face in the near future.
